

First Quo Vadis, photo by Kat Ernst.

QUO VADIS > HOME

Welcome to Quo Vadis!

Quo Vadis is a weeklong gathering for people interested in creating strong, supportive community for adult unschoolers and self-educators. We work to empower those dedicated to lifelong learning by facilitating an event that cultivates, sustains, and unites individual self-educators and their allies.

Quo Vadis strives to provide younger adults with practical help and support; self-educators in general with an opportunity to meet, network, and share; and anyone interested, a positive example of self-education and cooperation in action - a place where people can dream big, work hard, and learn much.

Here on our website you can find lots of information about the event: what it's about, how to attend, how you can help out, and who to talk to to find out more.

If you're new to Quo Vadis, you might enjoy downloading the Brochure, checking out the Photo Album, or perusing the FAQ.

Want to get in touch with a real person? See the Contact page, where you can also find out how to receive Quo Vadis related announcements and updates by email or post.

To join us at Quo Vadis this year visit the Apply section and download a brochure & application. The 2004 deadline for early applications or to request scholarships is April 1st, 37 days from now)

Synopsis:

WHAT?
Quo Vadis 2004

WHEN?
June 20th - 26th

WHERE?
Camp Lane, outside of Eugene, OR

WHY?
To think, ponder, express, engage, interact, discuss, plot, scheme, coordinate, rejuvenate, inspire, chill, relax, laugh, expand, and enjoy.

BROCHURE:

QU
Wel
Quo
supp
to en
culti
Quo
supp
and coop
learn
Here
it's al
out r
If yo check
Want
can a upda
To jo
broch
requ
If yo

wer
l anyone more.</ with faq {
2004 }
4- A